Classification Talks

Kevin Lokey, Stan Kyker,
Reid Trawick

Ted Wright, Vocational Service Director, introduced Kevin Lokey, the first of three St. Simons Rotary Club members presenting classification talks. Kevin discussed his background and early days in Griffin, Ga. He attended the University of Georgia and graduated from Georgia State University. He spent time in New England before settling down in Griffin, where he opened the branch for A. G. Edwards Securities & Investment Firm. He left A. G. Edwards to enter the restaurant business; but was lured back to A. G. Edwards, this time in Brunswick, in 1999. He is active in community affairs when he is not working on estate planning for his customers. He enjoys hunting, fishing, tennis, golf and cooking. He and his wife, Linda, and their two children recently built a new home in Vassar Point on St. Simons Island.

Stan Kyker is a native of Porterfield, CA. California was home until he and his wife moved to St. Simons Island in March, 2002, "from one coast to the other." After graduating from UCLA, he stayed in Southern California planning to be a teacher. He tried endeavors for six years, accepting in 1968 the position of manager of the Southern California Restaurant Association, a job he held for 30 years. The name changed to the California Restaurant Association during the last 18 years of its existence. He represented the association's restaurant owners in that one business field as a manager, group buying source, lobbyist, coordinator, trade show organizer plus many other responsibilities. Since retiring from the association, he has run two other associations in the California area. He and his wife, Kathy, now reside near the Village Area of St. Simons Island.

Reid Trawick was born in California, his father was in the United States Navy and his transfers took the family from California, to Virginia and to Ogden, Utah – to name a few of his early homes. The family moved to Brunswick and Reid attended Glynn County Schools. He graduated from Glynn Academy where he pursued an interest in music, enjoying being a band member playing drums and percussions. He started as a member of a band at the "old" age of 16, and worked with a top 40's dance band but after several harrowing, if not interesting experiences, decided to forego the band scene. He now plays music for the Norwich Street Baptist Church. He joined Reid Jewelers, Brunswick. After three years, he felt the jewelry business was just not the career he wanted. He joined New York Life/Smoot Financial Group on St. Simons 3½ years ago. His enjoyment of helping people made this career choice an easy decision. He and his wife and two children are members of St. Simons Presbyterian Church.
